THE REASON WHY.

The following appears in the California New Editor News Letter: The local newspapers deploye the fact of so many persons being out tool enough tooperateon such conditions. They pronouce cheap labor (meaning, of course, the employment of Chinese), as the ourse of California; and yet, without the Chinese we should have had to pay Biddy $60 a month, and others in proportion, who do not know half as much, and are unwilling to do balt as much work as the Chinese. But then they say the Chinese are idelators If they burn paper and worship Joss what is he odds P He may have been quite as respectable a gentleman so Mary was a lady, and quite as likely to have been the father of God us she the mother. Therefore they are no more. idolators in worshipping him than others are in burning candles and worshipping ber. The moral code of the Chinese, as proclaimed by Confucius, is quite as unexceptionable as that of self-hallowed Christians, and they believe in the same God that we do, and in the immortality of the soul; but instead of arrogating to themselves the power to determine what its condition will be, as Christians do, they do not

GLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. PUNTI AND MANDABIN PRONUNCIATION. ANGLO-ORINESS DICTIONARY, by the Rev. W. LOBSOHEID, published at the Daily Prior Office, Hongkong.

NOR more and practical service this Work which the Chinese have of late years been dompelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinary, photography, tolegraphy, and in solution generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming evercines for students of a most instructive nature.

Both the Court and Puntl pronunciations are given, the accents being excefully marked on the best-principle hitherto attained. The types graphy displays the uncoses of an attempt to make the Uhinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby affecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with these Acting Commissioner of Customs. vast margina and vacant spaces which have Office of Maritime Customs, beretofore characterized Chinese publications.
